

PAOLA A.

Paola brings extensive experience in tourism and hospitality management, alongside a strong commitment to combating human trafficking. As a flight attendant with Avianca since 2014, Paola has developed expertise in customer service and operational management, while also leading efforts to train airline personnel on identifying human trafficking victims in flight. Her ability to manage teams, solve problems, and maintain high standards in fast-paced environments makes her an invaluable asset to ATB's mission in Colombia.

Paola's skills in communication, leadership, and team coordination are complemented by her dedication to supporting survivors and preventing trafficking. Her background in tourism administration and hands-on experience in the aviation sector uniquely position her to oversee operations and ensure that ATB's initiatives in Colombia are both effective and compassionate. Fluent in English and experienced in working with diverse teams, Paola is committed to empowering others through education and action, making her a strong advocate for ATB's anti-trafficking efforts.
