Retired Aerospace Program Manager with extensive experience leading complex projects at major aerospace companies in Tennessee and Washington State. A proud graduate of Seattle Pacific University, where I earned my degree in Business Administration, I have a solid foundation in managing large-scale operations, optimizing resources, and driving project success.

In addition to my professional career, I am deeply passionate about music. I love playing the guitar, writing original songs, and performing for anyone who enjoys live music. This passion extends into my community, where I actively serve as a member of the worship band at my church, blending my musical talents with my faith. I also hold a leadership role as a board member, contributing to the strategic direction and decision-making for the church's future growth and community outreach.
